

AFRO-LATINO MEMORY THROUGH FILM

FEBRUARY 4, 6-8 PM
MIDDLEBUSH HALL 12

This film-lovers event gives you the opportunity to look at the arts and identity, and the organization for rights and well-being. The screening includes:

“Nancy Morejon: Paisajes Célebres (Famous Landscapes)” is a documentary about the most widely translated Latin American Poet. Her writings address contemporary issues of ethnicity, gender, history, and Afro-Cuban identity. Written and directed by Juanamaria Cordones-Cook.

“Revolutionary Medicine: A Story of the First Garifuna Hospital” is an upbeat film about how an Afro-Indigenous community got fed up and built their own hospital. Directed by Beth Geglia and Jesse Freeston.

////////////////////
This event is cosponsored by MU Black History Month
Committee, MU Voz Latina, the Cambio Center, and the Department of Romance Languages and Literatures.
////////////////////////////////////